

MUTATIONS ASSOCIATED WITH IRON DISORDERS

Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention features a method of diagnosing an iron disorder, e.g., hemochromatosis, or a genetic susceptibility to developing such a disorder in a mammal by determining the presence of a mutation in exon 2 or in an intron of an HFE nucleic acid.